Served in the Bhootan Expedition in 1865—wounded (mentioned in despatches, Brevet of Major, Victoria Cross, and Medal with Clasp): received the VC under the following circumstances:—"Act of bravery for which recommended.—For gallant conduct at the attack on the Blockhouse at Dewangiri, in Bhootan, on the 30th April 1865. Major General Tombs, CB. VC. the Officer in command at the time, reports that a party of the enemy, from 180 to 200 in number, had barricaded themselves in the Blockhouse in question, which they continued to defend after the rest of the position had been carried and the main body was in retreat. The Blockhouse, which was loopholed, was the key of the enemy's position. Seeing no Officer of the storming party near, and being anxious that the place should be taken immediately, as any protracted resistance might have caused the main body of the Bhootas to rally, the British Force having been fighting in a broiling sun on very steep and difficult ground for upwards of three hours, the General in command ordered these two Officers [Captain Trevor, and Lieut. J. Dundas, R. Engineers (since dead)] to show the way into the Blockhouse. They had to climb up a wall which was fourteen feet high, and then to enter a house, occupied by some 200 desperate men, head foremost through an opening not more than two feet wide between the top of the wall and the roof of the Blockhouse. Major General Tombs states that on speaking to the Sikh soldiers around him, and telling them in Hindoostani to swarm up the wall, none of them responded to the call until these two Officers had shown them the way, when they followed with the greatest alacrity. Both of them were wounded."

The Officer who commanded the troops on the occasion reports: 'About an hour later in the day, Dr. Douglas, 2nd Battalion, 24th Regiment, and the four privates referred to, gallantly manning the second gig, made their way through the surf almost to the shore, but finding their boat was half-filled with water, they retired. A second attempt made by Dr. Douglas and party proved successful, five of us being safely passed through the surf to the boats outside. A third and last trip got the whole of the party left on shore safe to the boats.' It is stated that Dr. Douglas accomplished these trips through the surf to the shore by no ordinary exertion. He stood in the bow and worked her in an intrepid and seamanlike manner, cool to a degree, as if what he was then doing was an act of everyday life. The four privates behaved in an equally cool and collected manner throughout the roughest surf when the slightest hesitation or want of pluck on the part of any one of them would have attended by the gravest results. It is reported that seventeen officers and men were thus rescued, otherwise have been a fearful risk, if not certainty of death.'
